Conditional positive institutional accreditation of Copenhagen Business School

On 17 March 2022, the Accreditation Council granted Copenhagen Business School a conditional positive institutional accreditation, cf. section 8 of the Accreditation Act¹.

A conditional positive institutional accreditation means that all new study programmes and local provisions of study programmes will have to be accredited before they are established cf. section 10(1) of the Accreditation Act. The institution can make adjustments to existing study programmes and local provisions of study programmes.

The accreditation is valid until and including 17 March 2028, cf. section 10(1) of the Accreditation Act.
