C. Guidelines on content and structure of the report

- The external evaluation report follows the structure of assessment areas.
- At the beginning of each assessment area there is a box presenting:
  - standards which are relevant to the European Standards and Guidelines (ESG)*
  - some questions that EEC may find useful.*
- The questions aim at facilitating the understanding of each assessment area and at illustrating the range of topics covered by the standards.
- Under each assessment area there are quality indicators (criteria) to be scored by the EEC on a scale from one (1) to five (5), based on the degree of compliance for the above mentioned quality indicators (criteria). The scale used is explained below:

1 or 2:	Non-compliant
3:	Partially compliant
4 or 5:	Compliant

- The EEC must justify the numerical scores provided for the quality indicators (criteria) by specifying (if any) the deficiencies.
- It is pointed out that, in the case of indicators (criteria) that cannot be applied due to the status of the HEI and/or of the programme of study, N/A (= Not Applicable) should be noted and a detailed explanation should be provided on the HEI's corresponding policy regarding the specific quality indicator.
- In addition, for each assessment area it is important to provide information regarding the compliance with the requirements. In particular, the following must be included:

Findings

A short description of the situation in the Higher Education Institution (HEI), based on elements from the application for external evaluation and on findings from the onsite visit.

Strengths

A list of strengths, e.g. examples of good practices, achievements, innovative solutions etc.

Areas of improvement and recommendations

A list of problem areas to be dealt with, followed by or linked to the recommendations of how to improve the situation.

- The report may also address other issues which the EEC finds relevant.

Findings

A short description of the situation in the Higher Education Institution (HEI), based on elements from the application for external evaluation and on findings from the onsite visit.

Findings for [Leve 1]

The programme has been reviewed and in principle the committee were optimistic about outcomes going forward. They did however raise 3 areas where there was room for improvement in order to reach their ambitions in equipping the students with a first class journalism education and the best career outcomes.

It was noted that there was no opportunity in the final year for a substantive project or alternatively dissertation. This is standard practice in most Journalism degrees and gives a great chance for nearly graduating students to display their research skills and engage in a substantive piece of work – which they can show to future employers or in applications for MA degrees.

A second area of concern is the absence of a proper media law module. We note that there is an ethics course but we believe this course too should be strengthened. It is of paramount concern that students graduate with a sound understanding of media law (eg contempt, libel, privacy). Our proposal is either for a joint media law/ethics module or a new module which covers media law.

Our third suggestion is to widen the scope of electives within the Journalism core programme. We note there are plenty electives from outside and this is excellent but we believe more electives from the journalism staff (related to research areas maybe) would be optimal.

Areas of improvement and recommendations for [Level 1]

As noted in the findings the three areas for suggested improved should be addressed soon in order to make the programme. See above with respect to media law/ethics, final project and elective choices.

Furthermore the balance between core and elective courses. It is common practice to weight the core courses in the early years of the programme and elective/choices towards later years. Some further thought should be given to the placing and progression of core and elective courses within the degree.

D. Conclusions and final remarks

Please provide constructive conclusions and final remarks which may form the basis upon which improvements of the quality of the programme of study under review may be achieved, with emphasis on the correspondence with the EQF.

The committee overall found this a well organised programme and welcomed the efforts of the newly recruited academic team to restructure the curriculum for this degree. It noted good connections with potential employers and supports the widening opportunities for students to do meaningful internships that may indeed lead to employment in the future. It would be beneficial if these links could be widened beyond the immediate domestic scene to incorporate more international opportunities.

Despite the strengths noted in the revised programme the committee wanted to emphasise some areas of concern in the structure of teaching. As we have highlighted these cover three main areas;

We are recommending the introduction of a final project or dissertation for all fourth year students – individually supervised by a faculty member. This has highly beneficial effects for students reaching the job market.

Secondly we strongly urge that media law is introduced into the curriculum as a vital component for any training in journalism. This could be incorporated into the ethics course. However we do also have concerns about the ethics module as it is currently taught and would again urge that consideration is given to revising and improving this part of the syllabus.

Thirdly we have some concerns about the overall balance of the programme – and would suggest more core courses in the early years – balanced by more specialisation and electives in the latter years.

Finally we would request that the faculty investigate whether they can offer more electives from the Journalism area – ideally based on research specialisation or practical specialist areas. We realise there may be staffing issues here but we would urge the department to consider this request as things develop in this programme because it would undoubtedly strengthen the programme.
